Missions Today spring issue 2026

As you read this first edition of Missions Today for 2026 you will be informed that this year is the 100th Anniversary of World Mission Sunday, that special Sunday in October when the Catholic world reflects upon and prays for the evangelization of the world, by the Church, in union with Christ.

In this issue we will discover the message of Pope Leo XIV for World Mission Sunday. As a missionary priest and then a bishop in Peru, his words are drawn from his own life experience. Every year a theme for World Mission Sunday is chosen by the Holy Father. In 2026 it is "One in Christ, united in mission." It is very close in sentiment to his own papal motto. At the very centre of being a Christian is union with Christ. The closer Christ and our brothers and sisters in the faith are to us, the greater will be our desire in the Holy Spirit to share this life. And that life is the love of God in Christ Jesus. This year is also a special commemoration of that great saint, Francis of Assisi. Pope Leo offers him as a source of inspiration for us to accept God's love and share it with others.

We here at the Pontifical Mission Societies are also encouraged by the Pope's words, "I would like to thank the Pontifical Mission Societies for their service to missionary cooperation, which I experienced with gratitude during my ministry in Peru."

This magazine offers us all an opportunity to learn about and to be part of missionary work today.

On various levels Mission Today – Spring 2026 seeks to draw us into the love of God. That life-giving and merciful love is best and forever expressed in the death and resurrection of Jesus in fulfillment of the mission given Him by His Father. May this message proclaimed at Easter bring you joy and consolation.

Yours in Christ,

Bishop John A. Boissonneau
National Director

The Pope's monthly prayer intentions

Each month, the Holy Father asks for our prayers for a specific intention. You are invited to join the whole Church as we pray:

April: For priests in crisis.

Let us pray for priests going through moments of crisis in their vocation, that they may find the accompaniment they need and that communities may support them with understanding and prayer.

May: That everyone might have food.

Let us pray that everyone, from large producers to small consumers, be committed to avoid wasting food, and to ensure that everyone has access to quality food.

June: For the values of sports.

Let us pray that sports be an instrument of peace, encounter, and dialogue among cultures and nations, and that they promote values such as respect, solidarity, and personal growth.

Papal missionary message

World Mission Sunday 2026: One in Christ, united in mission

Pope Leo XIV has chosen the theme for the 100th World Mission Sunday: One in Christ, united in mission.

"Following the Jubilee Year, I wish to encourage the whole Church to continue its missionary journey with joy and zeal in the Holy Spirit," the Holy Father said in his message for World Mission Sunday. "This requires hearts united in Christ, reconciled communities and, in everyone, a willingness to cooperate with generosity and trust."

The theme echoes Pope Leo's own papal motto: In illo uno unum, which means "In the One, we are one." In his message, the Holy Father reflects on how unity powers an evangelical mission of love.

"The more united we are in Christ, the better able we will be to carry out together the mission that he entrusts to us."

In his message, the Holy Father begins with a reflection on the importance of unity, saying "the mystery of union with Christ lies at the heart of mission." He goes on to speak of our life in union with Christ. He says that this union, which in turn unifies us with the whole communion of believers, is the "source of all missionary fruitfulness."

He warns us that our witness is undermined by polarization, conflict and lack of trust and says that to continue the missionary work Christ entrusted to his disciples we must have, "hearts that are reconciled and eager for communion."

"It is through the witness of a reconciled, fraternal and united community that the proclamation of the Gospel acquires its full communicative power."

The Holy Father goes on to explain that this Christian unity has a purpose – a mission. He points out that Jesus himself makes this clear in the Gospel of John when he says, "So that the world may believe that you have sent me" (Jn 17:21).

"No baptized person is exempt from or indifferent to mission," he says. "Everyone, each according to their own vocation and condition of life, participates in the great work that Christ has entrusted to his Church."

"If unity is the condition of mission, love is its essence."

Having reflected on the two aspects of his theme – union with Christ and the communion of believers and union in the mission – the Holy Father concludes his message with a reflection on the mission itself. "The Good News that we are sent to proclaim to the world is not an abstract ideal," he says, "it is the Gospel of God's faithful love, which became flesh in the face and life of Jesus Christ."

Pope Leo XIV specifically calls on each of us to contribute to the great mission of evangelization, which he calls a work of love. He reminds us that prayers and practical support, gifts no matter how small, become a "meaningful act of missionary communion."

The Holy Father concludes his message with a prayer:

Holy Father, make us one in Christ, rooted in his love that unites and renews. May all members of the Church be united in mission, docile to the Holy Spirit, courageous in bearing witness to the Gospel, proclaiming and daily embodying your faithful love for all creatures.

Bless all missionary men and women, support them in their efforts, and watch over them in hope!

Mary, Queen of Missions, accompany our work of evangelization in every corner of the earth: make us instruments of peace, and grant that the whole world may recognize in Christ the light that saves. Amen.

missionaries who laid down their lives in 2025

Seventeen Catholic missionaries were killed in their work in 2025, including ten priests and two nuns. An annual study published by Fides finds that, since 2000, more than 626 missionaries and pastoral workers have been killed worldwide. Africa remains the most dangerous mission territory. Ten missionaries – six priests, two seminarians, and two catechists – were murdered in Africa in 2025. As we pray for all missionaries who bravely share the light of the Gospel around the world, we reflect on the stories of some of those who laid down their lives in 2025.

Nigeria – Seminarian Emmanuel Alabi

On July 10, a group of armed men attacked the Immaculate Conception Minor Seminary in Ivianokpodi, in the Diocese of Auchi in southern Nigeria. The men killed a security guard and kidnapped three teenaged seminarians: Japhet Jesse, Joshua Aleobua and Emmanuel Alabi. Jesse and Aleobua were eventually released, but Emmanuel Alabi did not survive captivity.

Kidnapping has become a particular danger to Catholics in Nigeria. A study published by Fides reports that 145 priests were kidnapped in the country between 2015 and 2025.

Haiti – Sister Evanette Onezaire and Sister Jeanne Voltaire

Sister Evanette Onezaire and Sister Jeanne Voltaire of the Congregation of the Little Sisters of St. Thérèse of the Child Jesus were victims of the continued violence in Haiti. The sisters had been on a mission to the city of Mirebalais when a coalition of powerful gangs launched an offensive against an effort to restore national control. The sisters took refuge with other civilians but were discovered by gang members and killed. Sister Denise Desil, the mother general of their congregation, said that the sisters were dedicated teachers serving Haitian children. "It's a big loss for us," Desil told Global Sisters Report. "A big, big loss for us."

Myanmar – Father Donald Martin Ye Naing Win

Father Donald Martin Ye Naing Win became the first Burmese Catholic priest killed in Myanmar's bloody civil conflict. Fides reports that two witnesses have recounted the details of Father Martin's final moments. Father Martin was a 44-year-old priest of the Archdiocese of Mandalay serving at the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes in the village of Kangyi Taw. On February 14, the witnesses, two women who were teachers and parish workers, were helping the priest prepare classes for the children of the parish when a group of ten armed militiamen arrived at the rectory and confronted Father Martin. The men ordered Father Martin to kneel, to which the priest replied, "I only kneel before God." Despite the clear danger, the witnesses heard the priest offer help to the men, saying, "What can I do for you? Is there something we can talk about?" But the men attacked, ultimately stabbing the priest repeatedly. The witnesses said the priest endured his attack silently, saying that he was, "like a lamb led to the slaughter."

Celebrating the missionary charism of St. Francis in the Franciscan Jubilee Year

October 3, 2026 will mark the 800th anniversary of the death of St. Francis of Assisi. In commemoration, Pope Leo XIV has proclaimed 2026 a "Special Year of St. Francis."

Though St. Francis lived and died the better part of a millennia ago, he remains one of the most influential saints of the Church. Today, there are dozens of religious groups inspired by the charism of Saint Francis and thousands of Franciscan missionaries who share the Gospel across the globe.

"This love Who hath loved us much is much to be loved"

Born to a wealthy family, young Francis aspired to become a respected knight. He did leave home at least twice to fulfil this ambition, but after imprisonment, illness, and a vision in which he was told to turn back, Francis returned. At this moment, when Francis was ashamed of his failure and uncertain of his future, he encountered a leper. Despite his fear and aversion, he decided to kiss the man and offer him help. Instead of the repulsion he expected, Francis said that he experienced a great consolation. At the end of his life, St. Francis looked back on this encounter as a moment of conversion, writing:

"When I was in sin, the sight of lepers nauseated me beyond measure; but then God himself led me into their company, and I had pity on them. When I became acquainted with them, what had previously nauseated me became the source of spiritual and physical consolation for me. After that I did not wait long before leaving the world."

In his message for World Mission Sunday 2026, Pope Leo reminds us that ultimately the mission to which we are all called is the mission to love. He highlights this with another quote from St. Francis, "This love Who hath loved us much is much to be loved." St. Francis' encounter with the leper was a moment of conversion because he extended the gift of Christ's love and in return he was given a sign of God's love for him.

"Go and rebuild my church."

One of the most notable stories from the life of St. Francis is his encounter before the crucifix in the chapel of San Damiano. There, while in prayer, St. Francis heard God tell him, "Go and rebuild my church." Taking this command literally, St. Francis physically repaired several dilapidated chapels in the area. Of course, St. Francis eventually came to understand the full meaning of his calling and went on to found a religious order dedicated to the renewal of God's whole Church.

In the intervening centuries, millions of holy men and women – priests, brothers, sisters, and laypeople – have taken up this call. The Church has been blessed with holy Franciscan missionaries like St. Junipero Serra and St. Maximilian Kolbe. And Franciscan missionary religious communities around the world serve the poor, educate and catechise, and yes, physically rebuild churches.

"May the Lord give you peace."

Early in ministry, St. Francis began using a prayerful greeting which he said had been revealed to him by the Lord: "May the Lord give you peace." It was with this prayer for the gift of peace in his heart that St. Francis answered the call to mission directly. Specifically, he acted as a missionary of peace. During the time of the Crusades, St. Francis made a difficult and dangerous journey to attempt a meeting with Egypt's Sultan Malik-el-Kamil to whom he preached the Gospel.

In his encyclical Fratelli Tutti, Pope Francis tells this story of the sultan, noting that St. Francis, "was able to welcome true peace into his heart and free himself of the desire to wield power over others. He became one of the poor and sought to live in harmony with all."

In a letter at the opening of this holy year, Pope Leo XIV reflected especially on St. Francis' greeting of peace writing, "with these essential words, he conveys to his friars and to every believer the inner wonder that the Gospel had brought into his life: peace is the sum of all God's gifts, a gift that comes from above. What an illusion it would be to think that it can be built by human efforts alone! And yet it is an active gift, to be welcomed and lived every day."

In this holy year of St. Francis, may we all reflect on God's missionary call to rebuild his Church, and may we do so following the holy example of St. Francis, a missionary of peace.

Prayer for the Jubilee Year of St. Francis

Saint Francis, our brother, you who eight hundred years ago went to meet Sister Death as a man at peace, intercede for us before the Lord.

You recognized true peace in the Crucifix of San Damiano, teach us to seek in Him the source of all reconciliation that breaks down every wall.

You who, unarmed, crossed the lines of war and misunderstanding, give us the courage to build bridges where the world raises up boundaries.

In this time afflicted by conflict and division, intercede for us so that we may become peacemakers: unarmed and disarming witnesses of the peace that comes from Christ.

Amen

not waste it. Peace will not grow through guilt or revenge. It will grow through a new language, forgiveness, patience, love, unity, reconciliation, and healing." This is the message that Bishop Eduardo Hiiboro Kussala of Tombura-Yambio addressed to the faithful and authorities on the occasion of the recent inauguration of a new Pastoral Center for the Western Deanery of the diocese.

The Center's objective is expected to enhance pastoral administration, strengthen evangelization efforts, and support service delivery to the faithful in Tombura and surrounding parishes. Bishop Hiiboro encouraged priests, catechists, and lay leaders to make effective use of the Pastoral Centre in serving the people of God. He noted that the Centre will play a key role in improving coordination of church activities, pastoral planning, and formation programs across the deanery. (AP) (Agenzia Fides, 26/1/2026)

ASIA/MYANMAR - A new church opens amid conflict: a sign of faith and hope Myitkyina (Agenzia Fides) - The blessing of a new Catholic church and a grotto with the statue of Our Lady of Lourdes, the "Regina Pacis," is a significant event in the Diocese of Myitkyina, the capital of Kachin State in northern Myanmar. Amid the ongoing civil war, the surrounding area is the scene of violent clashes between the regular army and Kachin ethnic militias, causing immense suffering for the civilian population and a steady increase in the number of displaced persons.

In this context, the construction and opening of a church for Catholic faithful on January 13 holds special significance: It underscores that "in times of crisis and need, the faithful are called to be a community of living stones, as the Apostle Peter says in his first letter," said Bishop of Myitkyina, John Mung Ngawn La Sam as he blessed the new Church of St. John in the Takkone Htoi San district of the capital, Myitkyina. The new church had become necessary due to the considerable growth of the local Catholic community in the diocese, which now numbers over 95,000. (PA) (Agenzia Fides, 24/1/2026)

AMERICA/ARGENTINA - "Easter in La Rioja, joy of the people": Diocesan Jubilee for the 50th anniversary of the martyrdom of the local Blessed

La Rioja (Agenzia Fides) – In the wake of the recently concluded Jubilee of Hope, the Bishop of La Rioja, Dante Braida, has announced the opening of a Diocesan Jubilee to mark the 50th anniversary of the martyrdom of Blessed Enrique Angelelli, Carlos de Dios Murias, Gabriel Longueville, and Wenceslao Pedernera, whom he described as a gift of the Holy Spirit for the Church of La Rioja.

The prelate emphasized how the martyrs' witness continues to inspire a faithful listening to the Gospel, along with a concrete commitment to justice, reconciliation, and closeness to the poor. He invited everyone to experience this Jubilee, whose motto will be "Easter in La Rioja, joy of the People," as a true spiritual and pastoral event, capable of renewing the baptismal identity, pastoral charity, Christian hope, and missionary zeal of all the People of God. As a missionary priest with the Society of Missionaries of Africa (White Fathers) for more than 30 years, I have been privileged to serve in South Africa, Ghana, Zambia, the Philippines, India, and now in Canada. Most of this time has been as a formator of young men wanting to be missionaries in our congregation, serving the peoples of Africa. Today, these lived experiences provide the backdrop for my new role within the Archdiocese of Toronto.

At the request of His Eminence Francis Cardinal Leo, Archbishop of Toronto, I accepted the role of Director of the Archdiocesan Mission Office at the beginning of September 2025. Among my different responsibilities is that of liaison between the Archdiocese of Toronto and the Pontifical Mission Societies.

Over the past months, I have gained many insights not only concerning the aims, objectives, goals, and history of the Pontifical Mission Societies in general, but of its four component societies.

My years in mission helped me become aware not only of the individual needs of the people around me, but also the needs of the local church. Without the help and support offered by Pontifical Mission Societies, what the local church in mission territories can do is often limited. With your participation in the missions and contributions, great and wonderful things happen.

As a formator of our candidates in Africa and Asia for 22 years, financial contributions from from the Pontifical Mission Societies, especially the Society of St. Peter the Apostle, helped us to provide a well-rounded formation for our candidates, preparing them for the many challenges of missionary life today. Africa continues to be a place of mission, but Africa now sends missionaries to other parts of our world, including Canada. Thanks to prayers and generous stewardship of resources, the mission continues!

Mission Sunday 2026 will celebrate its 100th anniversary on Sunday, 19 October 2026. The theme chosen by our Holy Father is "One in Christ, United in mission." This is an ideal opportunity to give thanks for the work of the Pontifical Mission Societies not only praying for missionaries around the world, but taking concrete actions to ensure that our young, emerging dioceses and parishes not only receive the moral support and prayers needed, but the financial support empowering them to continue the mission of Jesus in our world today, which is, for me, the true meaning of One in Christ, United in mission!

This work is not separate from the Church's mission – the Pontifical Mission Societies are integral to the Church's mission.

Project report

Hope in action: The Mpika Maize Mill Project

Courtesy of Pontifical Mission Societies Australia

Rooted in the values of the Gospel, the Pontifical Mission Societies has been working alongside the Diocese of Mpika in Zambia to build a sustainable and inclusive local economy. The partnership aims to create opportunities that uplift the entire community, particularly those who are most vulnerable.

The Maize Mill Project emerged in response to Zambia's food crisis. In 2024, the country declared a state of emergency as drought, inflation, and declining crop yields drove food prices higher and increased hunger. In Mpika, many families were caught in a difficult cycle, selling their maize at low prices and buying back processed flour at much higher cost. Seeking a just and practical solution, Bishop Edwin Mulandu launched the Maize Mill Project to strengthen food security, support economic development, and care for creation.

A key strength of the initiative is the leadership and participation of women, many of whom had previously been excluded from formal economic opportunities. Today, more than 1,000 women from across the diocese are involved, with many others hoping to join. Participants receive seeds, fertilizer, and agricultural training to improve crop production. Bishop Mulandu expressed that, as a diocese, they strongly believe that empowering women will help solve a lot of issues at a household level and in the community.

Once harvested, the maize is purchased by the diocese at a fair, pre-set price, ensuring stable income for farmers. The grain is then milled locally into flour and distributed within the district. Major buyers include hospitals, schools, hotels, lodges, businesses, and local families. This circular approach keeps resources within the community, reduces dependency, and strengthens the local economy.

Beyond improving food access, the project provides women with reliable and dignified livelihoods. It also fosters solidarity and mutual support. As Conor Nolan, Program Officer overseeing the project, explains, the project offers not only training and employment, but also a safe space where women can gather, share challenges, and access support when needed.

Last October during World Mission Month, Pope Leo XIV renewed Pope Francis' call for all of us to be "pilgrims of hope." Our faith invites us to walk alongside those on the margins and to share Christ's hope through concrete acts of love. Mission is not distant. It is lived daily through generosity and solidarity.

The Maize Mill Project has been strengthening the Mpika community and improving the lives of its people. By supporting initiatives like this, hope is brought in a tangible way to families striving for a better future.
